FROM THE DIRECTOR

What does the month of September signify for you? Is it back to school time? Does it feel like a new start? Are you tempted by all of the school supplies and sock sales, even if there aren't any students in your life? While I mourn the end of summer, I look forward to the routine of the school year at our house and crisp fall days. I start reading organizing and cleaning books, with the hopes of finally tackling the clutter and chaos. I load up on e-audio books for long walks to improve my health, with the added bonus of making my dog happy. I'm inspired to investigate new interests or take a deeper-dive on other topics. I justify a new notebook or two, and a couple of nice pens (they are on sale after all). It's sort-of a second chance at those New Year's Resolutions.

What I never look forward to is "homework battles." Thanks to the Friends of the Library, Live Homework Help powered by Tutor.com is available via the library's website. You can ask a live tutor for help with a specific problem, have them review a paper or prepare for a test. Not a student but looking for a job? You can connect with a career coach or have your resume reviewed. There are numerous other resources available on our website, including Powerspeak Languages for foreign language or ESL learners. As always, if you have any questions about these or other library resources simply stop in or call. We are here to help.

Happy Fall!
